

Incident Management

Reduce the Likelihood of Major Events and Operational Losses

The last decade has proven that unforeseen catastrophic events continue to occur at a disturbing rate while increasing in severity. Companies must continually improve their efforts to ensure safe and reliable operations. This is a major challenge today in the midst of lower operating margins, aging equipment, increasing regulatory pressure, and an ever-changing workforce.

To overcome these roadblocks, companies need integrated software tools and proven recommended practices that enable them to capture, track, investigate, report and analyze their incidents and near-miss events, control operational risks, improve safety performance and sustain learning.

BENEFITS

Sphera leverages a unique set of software, content and community of experts to enable customers to:

- Prevent repeat incidents
- Protect your people, operations and community
- Benchmark work practice behaviors across the enterprise to extract proven leading indicators that drive performance outcomes
- Gain insights from your process execution to influence behaviors

What system is powering your Incident Management program?

An effective incident management program will improve worker and process safety performance, asset uptime, regulatory compliance, environmental performance and preserve company reputation.

The IHS Incident Management Solution helps you consolidate your operational performance information and track incidents across all types and locations. It allows you to address potential risks at any organizational level, integrate root cause analysis with preventative measures and assign and track actions to closure.

IHS provides insight into the repeatable organizational behaviors and leading key performance indicators (KPIs) that drive superior results. The risk analytics capability enables you to improve overall safety performance by:

- Validating which risk reduction efforts have the most impact on performance
- Reducing losses by providing forward-looking measurements
- Prioritizing budget allocation on the most effective initiatives
- Generate metrics that help steward change in key areas of need

“We believe that our injury rates and our costs are lower because we’ve reduced our accidents and incidents by following through and responding to potential issues identified utilizing the IHS solution.”
